Grade School Classes to Occupy 2 Rooms in Antioch High School

Plans of Elementary School With Teacher List Are Announced

Two rooms in the Antioch Township High school will be used by the Antioch grade school district in an effort to provide for the four additional classes that must be formed by reason of a large enrollment.

The classes at the high school will be for eighth grade pupils who will be transported there by the grade school bus.

There will be two classes instead of one this year at the Scout House and two instead of one at the Oakland school.

The new addition to the grade school will not be ready until next year, but at that time will make use of the overflow buildings unnecessary.

School opens on Tuesday, Sept. 8, starting at 9 a. m., and closing at 2 p. m. for the first day.

The cafeteria will be in full operation on the first day of school. The charge per meal will be 25c, and, with 16 school days in September, the charge for this month will be $4.00. Parents are urged to pay for children's lunches by the month, in order to relieve the teacher of excess bookkeeping.

All kindergarten and first grade students enrolling in this district for the first time must present birth certificates as proof of age. Children residing in District 34 are eligible to attend kindergarten if their fifth birthday is on or before Dec. 1, 1953; while those who will be six on or before Dec. 1, 1953 may be enrolled in first grade.

Kindergarten children will register the first day in two shifts. Those who live outside the village of Antioch will attend the morning session and will register Tuesday morning. Those living within the village limits will attend the afternoon session and will register Tuesday after 12:45 p. m. The kindergarten fee will be $7.50 for the year. The Horace Mann Pupil Insurance will be charged each student for a yearly charge of $1.25. The child is insured against accidents while at school or traveling to and from school.

Three busses will be in operation starting the first day of school. The schedule will be as follows: Roy Burdick, with the Dodge bus, will start his first run on North avenue to the northeast of Antioch at 7:55 a. m. His second run will leave the grade school at 8:25 and pick up all children on Tiffany road—then pick up lower grades (Continued on page 7)

Attendance Records Broken at Kenosha Co. Fair Held at Wilmot

The attendance at the Kenosha County fair in Wilmot last week was the largest in the history of the association, Secretary Henry Frank said yesterday. It was estimated at 35,000.

Good weather throughout made the attraction enjoyable and the car races and rodeo drew big crowds.

The new 4-H building converted from the old gymnasium of the school worked very satisfactorily and the exhibits of the young people were excellent.

The live stock exhibit was the largest in the history of the fair. There were 300 head of dairy cattle, 100 head of beef cattle, 150 hogs, and 100 sheep.

The commercial and machinery exhibits were bigger than ever and attracted much attention.

Rep. Paul W. Shafer to be Main Speaker at Republican Picnic

A full afternoon of entertainment, dancing, sports, and politicking is on the program for those attending the annual Lake County Republican Central Committee picnic to be held at Lakewood Park, Round Lake, Sunday, Aug. 23.

Principal speaker for the gathering will be U. S. Representative Paul W. Shafer, of Michigan, a consistent opponent of the New Deal and Fair Deal during his 17 years in Congress.

A bitter opponent of the foreign giveaway programs of the Democratic administrations, Cong. Shafer has consistently fought for greater economy in government, lower taxes and greater respect for the taxpayers' dollars.

Alert at all times to threats to the security of America he was an early advocate of the ending of diplomatic relations with Russia and warned of the dangers in the arbitrary division of the Republic of Korea in 1947.

State, county, and district Republican leaders will share the platform with Cong. Shafer, whose appearance was arranged with the cooperation of Cong. Marguerite Stitt Church, who will be among those attending.

The day's program will be launched with a softball game organized by John Andracki, chairman of the sports committee, followed by a program of variety entertainment programmed by Lawrence Petruschus, chairman of the entertainment committee.

The evening will be given over to dancing at the park pavilion to the music of Frank Laurie and his orchestra of strolling minstrels will entertain throughout the game.

Special games are being planned by the committees for children and adults and a plentiful supply of free ice cream and pop will be on hand for the future Republicans.

Cong. Shafer and other honored guests will be met and escorted to the picnic grounds by Ellsworth Mills, of Highland Park, chairman of the reception committee.

Donald M. Simms, 35 Resident of Loon Lk. Killed in Car Crash

Funeral Service Held Today at Strang's; Burial at Rose Hill

Funeral services were held at 1 p. m. today for Donald M. Simms, 35, of Loon Lake, who was killed instantly when his car crashed into a tree on Loon Lake rd. east of Rte. 21 at 6 a. m. Tuesday morning.

The service was held at the Strang Funeral home with interment at Rose Hill cemetery. The Rev. Howard Benson of the Methodist church officiated.

Mr. Simms' accident is believed to have occurred when he fell asleep at the wheel and the car left the pavement. The crash snapped off the heavy tree and flipped the car over, heading it in the opposite direction. The car was a total wreck.

The Antioch Rescue squad was called but found no life in Mr. Simms when it arrived.

Mr. Simms was born July 19, 1918 in Chicago, and came to Fox Lake as a child, living there and at Grass Lake and Chicago intermittently. He had lived at Loon Lake since he became employed as business agent for the Lake County Tavern Owners association.

Surviving are his widow, Elizabeth, a son, Timothy, 12, three brothers, Louis J. and Cecil, both of Chicago, and George, of Fox Lake; three sisters, Mrs. Louise Anderson of Chicago; Mrs. Dorothy Pregner of near Antioch; Mrs. Eileen Seavey, Vero Beach, Fla., and his mother, Mrs. Louise Simms, of Chicago.

County to Vote on Tax Increase on Sept. 29; 1½ Cent More Asked

The Lake County Board of Supervisors has set Sept. 29 as the date on which Lake county voters will be asked to go to the polls to vote on an increase in the corporate fund tax rate limit from .047 to .062. This amounts to 1½ cents on the $100 assessed valuation.

The board was ready to ask a 4½ cent increase, but investigation of the Lake County Civic League revealed that while that amount would erase the indebtedness in one year, it isn't necessary to return to the black all at once and thereafter provide a surplus.

The Lake County Farm bureau agreed and the result was that the board came down to the compromise figure of 1½ cents which was upped from 1 cent by the Civic League. The two organizations now favor passage.

14 lb. Muskmelons Raised Locally By Joseph Anzingers

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Anzinger residing southwest of Antioch near Grass Lake road had a vine that bore two gigantic muskmelons this year, which they are showing their acquaintances with much pride.

One of the melons weighed 14½ pounds and had a girth lengthwise of 32 inches and crosswise of 27 inches. The other weighed but a half pound less.

Mr. Anzinger doesn't know just what variety the melons are. He planted some Milwaukee Markets and then tossed in a handful of Persian seeds. While Persians grow large, they usually are round. These are oval and while smooth, have a definite segment.

"The first one was delicious," said Mrs. Anzinger.

Hunters, Business Men Protest Purchase of Hatch Estate on Grass Lk. as Preserve

Much objection is being raised by Grass Lake business men and Lake county hunters to the purchase of the Hatch estate in that area for a game preserve.

In a signed article, W. J. Murphy of near Antioch, a real estate man with office in Round Lake, charges that Palmer, head of the State Conservation Department, misled the people when he announced that the purchase of 750 acres is but one per cent of the water area used for hunting in Lake county.

The one per cent, Murphy says, represents 97 per cent of the duck hunting area.

He says the change has the effect

Two-Year-Old Drowns In Freak Accident at Lake Villa Wednesday

A tragic accident at Allendale School for Boys, Lake Villa, Wednesday resulted in the death of two-year-old Charles Hopper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hopper, faculty members of the school.

The baby was missed at about 11 a. m. from the grounds of St. Armand cottage, where his parents act as house parents, and after several hours of search it was found that he had climbed an embankment and somehow fallen through a grating covering a sewage disposal tank and drowned. The body was discovered after the tank had been pumped in the search.

The Hoppers moved to Allendale at the beginning of the summer term, early in July, and Mr. Hopper was a member of the teaching staff. They moved to Allendale from Indianapolis, Ind.

New Sewer and Water Project to Cost Village Approximately $33,000

Bids on Well Pump House and Sewer Lift Pump Lacking Tuesday

While the contracts haven't been signed as yet, it appears that Antioch will get its new water well and mains and sewer mains east of the Soo Line tracks for slightly less than the $35,000 the engineer estimated. Bids were opened Tuesday night.

The low bidder on the well was the Layne-Western Co. of Aurora, Ill., which will put down the well and install the pump for $8,554.

This was $344.60 less than the bid of the J. P. Miller Artesian Well Co. of Brookfield, Ill., which has always been the low bidder on previous Antioch jobs.

The Inland Lakes Sewer and Water Co. of Grayslake, headed by that village's mayor, Michael Reimers, was the only bidder on the sewer and water mains.

That company's bid in the use of cast iron water pipe was $8,027.40 for the 1,197 feet of water mains, two fire hydrants and three gate valves.

On the advice of Engineer David Miller, the trustees chose cast iron pipe, although it is more expensive. Miller said that the transit pipe is good, but he thought the cast iron would stand up better under the railroad tracks and could be worked better by the contractor.

Reimer's bid on the 1,795 feet of sanitary sewer, five manholes and connections was $6,991.25.

There were two hitches to the bidding. One was the fact that there were no bids on the pump house and another there was no bid on the lift station.

The board will seek separate contracts on these jobs and will hold up the signing of the contracts with Layne-Western and Inland Lakes for 10 days until these separate contracts are let.

It was estimated the total cost would be about $33,000. The bond firm of Benjamin and Lang, Chicago, has offered the purchase of bonds up to $45,000, and about $10,000 worth won't be needed.

The representative of the Layne-Western Co. said the drilling can be started in about three weeks, and as Reimers' equipment is now in use in this area, he should be able to start the laying of mains soon.

Where Mines Are State Controlled

The Argonaut of San Francisco recently carried a column from London dealing with various British affairs. One item observed that the days had turned cloudy and cool, and continued: "This is what the English call weather, but they are used to it, and being used to it they are a people who even at mid-summer take thought for the winter. They think in terms of coal, and just now their thoughts are perturbed, for H. Van Hall, president of the Coal Merchants Federation, has sounded an alarm. He has warned that the house coal position has never been more serious than it is now—not even at any time during the war. Not only that; the quality of coal is so poor that anything between 10 per cent and 90 per cent delivered to housewives is not combustible. The mines are state controlled."

That last sentence is enormously significant: "The mines are state controlled." For state control is socialism, and in 99 cases out of 100 socialism results in both scarcity and poor quality. And that is not to be wondered at. Inevitably, socialism gives all power of decision to bureaucrats who have risen to high position because they are politically adroit and who often have no real knowledge of the enterprise they dominate. Equally bad, socialism is a sure destroyer of enterprise and initiative.

In America, by contrast, where coal is a free industry in a free, competitive economy, homes and businesses have all the fuel they want immediately available—and it is high-quality fuel, tailored to fit the needs of each type of consumer.

No "Federal Bail-Out"

Not so long ago, a great many people were frankly envious of the cattle producer. Prices were high, sales were good, and to the amateur eye it looked as if the cattlemen were making money hand over fist and would continue to do so in the future.

Few would be envious of the farmers and ranchers who depend on cattle today. The cost of producing cattle for market remains high—but the value of the animals has declined sharply. According to the Department of Agriculture, in a single month of this year the average prices paid for beef cattle sank 12 per cent.

There are two primary reasons for this. One is that the cattle population touched an all-time high some months ago, and it is an axiom that when any commodity is in abundant supply, the price generally tends downward—just as when there is scarcity the price generally tends upward. Then the prolonged and extreme drought in Texas and elsewhere destroyed feed on which producers had been depending to carry their herds, and forced abnormally large marketings. So prices went down some more and continued to go down.

Yet, as Edmund Christopherson writes in the Saturday Evening Post, "Not one of the more than a hundred range cattlemen's organizations favors a federal bail-out." They think that the best way to solve their problems is through their own efforts. The meat industry has always believed in competitive free enterprise and it isn't changing that belief now.

A More Respectable Dollar

A Wall Street Journal news story began with these words: "The dollar is getting more respectable. Despite the great abundance of greenbacks kicking around each of them will buy more of nearly everything." The paper went on to say that the official cost of living figures do not show this, but a trip to the markets does. It then dealt at length with a wide variety of wares in common use which have gone down in price, based on surveys made by its reporters in communities from coast to coast.

It would be a foolhardy man indeed who would forecast that inflation had run its course and that we can confidently expect steady price declines. No one knows what the future will bring, but the fact that so many prices have dropped, often by substantial percentages, since abandonment of government price controls is an excellent commentary on the worth, efficiency and vigor of our competitive system of doing business.

All of us see that system in action on the retail level. Every kind and size of store, from the newest and smallest specialty shop to the oldest and biggest chain, is aggressively seeking business. In many lines, the "buyers' market" has come back with a vengeance. Every possible inducement of price and service is used to attract the consumer. In most merchandising operations, the retailer's profits are very small—a few cents or less out of each dollar he takes in. Together, mass production and mass distribution, both intensely competitive, see to it that we get the best possible value for our money.

The Low Down from Hickory Grove

"Money makes the mare go"—that is as old as the hills. And "free" dinero, brother, business is good in that department. The folk in many brackets—high and low—if you read what they say about our extravagant Govt. you say to yourself, now, that guy or maybe it is a dame, is talkin' sense. These near-patriots proclaim the prodigal Govt. political spending of the past dozen years, if not stopped and pronto, is going to bog us down—lay us so low we will resemble Rome the day after Nero's fiddling spree.

But the next day a big manufacturing tycoon when he finishes his speech flaying Govt.'s fool spending, gets on his bicycle, heads for the Govt. Power Bureau and signs up for his hefty kilowatt needs. Govt. power in big blocks is dispensed below cost. Did you say tycoon, says Henry—and shouldn't it be typhoon. Take your choice, I says, I'm busy.

Now, I call your attention to your very own City Hall, Courthouse, State House, Chamber of Commerce. There is a heap of double talk there, too. Everybody is trying for "his cut" of the loot. Your poor senator and congressman, you let the mayor needle him for a new marble lining for your swimming pool, or some such knick knack. Funny folks you say—eh! wot! I agree with you.

Yours with the low down,

You're "sitting pretty" behind the wheel

Take this Bel Air model. First thing you'll notice is the quality of the interior. Rich-looking appointments. Roomy seats with foam rubber cushions. Turn the key to start the engine and you're ready to go.

You can see all around

You look out and down through a wide, curved, one-piece windshield. The panoramic rear window and big side windows provide a clear view in all directions.

You get more power on less gas

That's because Chevrolet's two great valve-in-head engines are high-compression engines. In Powerglide* models, you get the most powerful engine in Chevrolet's field—the new 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame." Gearshift models offer the advanced 108-h.p. "Thrill-King" engine.

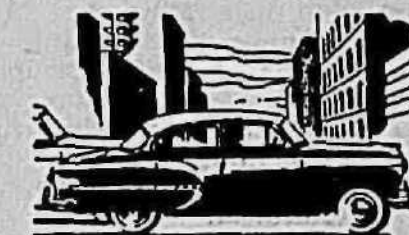

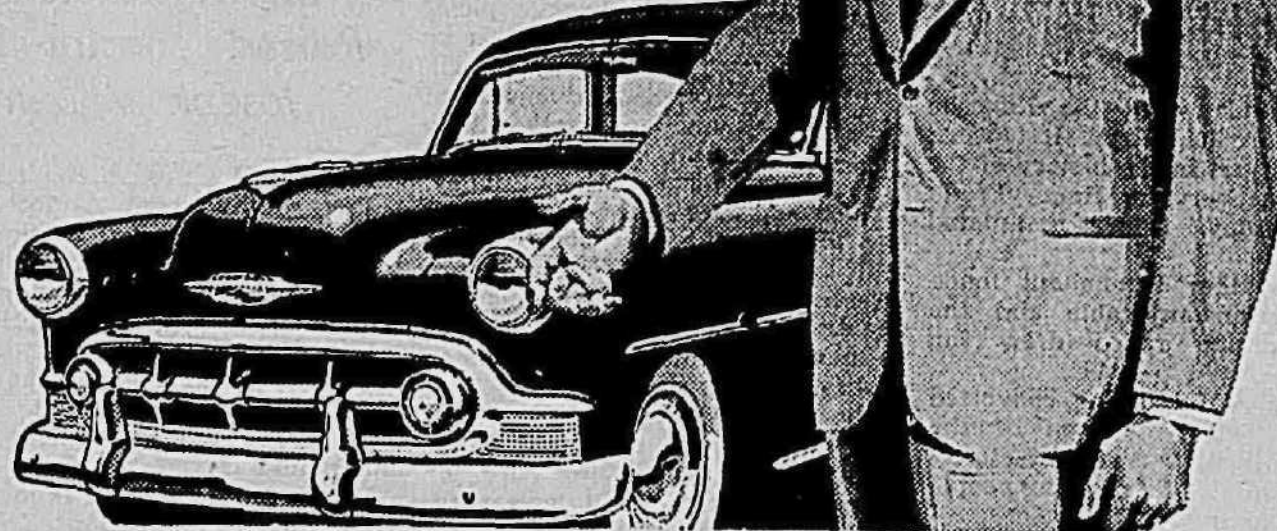

Biggest brakes for smoother, easier stops

An easy nudge on the pedal brings smooth, positive response—right now! Chevrolet's improved brakes are the largest in the low-price field.

I was ahead in every way after this demonstration!

I figured on paying about $200 more for a new car . . . until I discovered all that Chevrolet offered me.

It's heavier for better roadability

You're in for a pleasant surprise at the smooth, steady, big-car ride of this new Chevrolet. One reason is that, model for model, Chevrolet will weigh up to 200 pounds more than the other low-priced cars.

You get greater getaway with the new Powerglide*
A lot finer performance on a lot less gas. That's what you get with the new Powerglide automatic transmission. There's no more advanced automatic transmission at any price.

And it's the lowest-priced line
A demonstration will show you that Chevrolet offers just about everything you could want. Yet it's the lowest-priced line in the low-price field.

*Combination of Powerglide automatic transmission and 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine optional on "Two-Ten" and Bel Air models at extra cost.

SHORT STORY

Out
Of Order

By Clarence Sydney

"I'm sorry, Dab, but the dumb-waiter seems to be stuck," Sally said.

Dab Jenkins brushed an unruly lock of hair back, and nodded solemnly to the pretty young girl. "I'll fix it right up." He crossed the room, opened the door of the dumb-waiter shaft, and began working inside. A few seconds later, he pushed his way out, and tugged the box up to Sally's floor.

3-Minute Fiction

"What was wrong with it?" Sally asked.

"It must have been those kids on the floor below. Someone tied a knot in the rope so you couldn't pull it through the pulley."

Sally smiled. "Well, thank you, Dab. Won't you have a cup of coffee? I have some all made."

"Well, don't mind if I do," he said.

Sally poured the two cups. "I wonder," she asked herself, "if he thinks it strange that I always just happen to have a fresh pot of coffee ready when I call him up to fix something?"

For there was nothing accidental about the coffee. If Sally found something that needed fixing, she always went to the kitchen, made coffee, and then called Dab. Dab wasn't the janitor, really. He had a job downtown somewhere during the day. In the evenings, he acted as janitor in return for his room.

Sally lived for these minutes over coffee with Dab. She was the type of woman that the kids in the apartment below seemed to like to plague. Something went wrong at least twice a week, and the kids were behind most of them. But Sally wasn't surprised at that. A school teacher is rather fair game for kids' tricks. Why, they might even be in her class at school. She had never seen them.

A few nights later, the dumb-waiter again was stuck. Looking inside, she again saw that the children had tied a knot in the rope. It would have been simple enough to fix it herself, but she prepared a pot of coffee, then pushed the bell that called Dab. Dab seemed rather pre-occupied as he fixed the dumb-waiter, but he readily accepted her offer of coffee.

"Sally," Dab said, "there's something I have to tell you. I've been sort of fooling you. My job as janitor here is just been sort of training. You see, my father owns this apartment building—along with several others. He's been training me to take over. He says that a man has to learn how to handle all kinds of calls for repairs and things before he can handle a whole chain of apartment houses."

"I didn't tell you," he said seriously, "because I was afraid if you knew dad owned the place that you might not be so nice to me. And I—well, I wanted you to know that I—I think you're wonderful."

He gulped the last of his coffee, and mumbled something, and left. You fool, Sally told herself. He was trying to say he loved me, and didn't have the nerve. I've got to get him up here.

She snapped her fingers, and walked over, opened the dumb-waiter, and calmly tied a knot in the rope so the waiter was again stuck. She rang for Dab.

"Dab," she said when he came, "those kids have done it again. She was trying to work up the nerve to tell him that she loved him, when his arms circled her, lifted her off the floor. Dab kissed her. "I love you," he whispered.

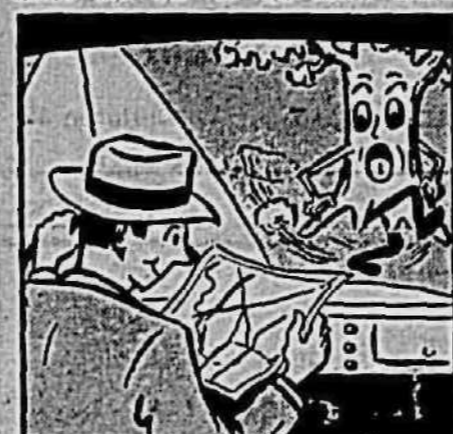

"Oh, Dab, I love you, too. I was trying to think of a way to tell you."

"You did tell me," he said. "You see, there aren't any kids in the apartment house. Haven't been for over a year—unless you count me."

Tips on Traffic
SafetyBy
CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

If you lose your way while you are taking that vacation trip this summer and need to refer to your road map, drive your car off the highway at some suitable place and stop before trying to find your location on the map.

Don't try to read the map and drive the car at the same time.

You won't do either one very well, and you might suddenly discover your location is a hospital bed.

At present day highway speeds, it takes only a second or two for your car to leave the highway completely if you are not watching what you are doing. Other drivers may be successful in getting out of your way, but trees, culverts, ditches and line poles can't dodge.

Make sure you stay on the road by keeping your attention directed to doing just that. If reading a map or anything else demands your attention, stop the car first.

Card of Thanks

I wish to thank my friends and neighbors for their kind remembrances while I was in the hospital.

SHORT STORY

SHORT

Best Friend

By Patricia Marsh

"I'M SORRY to have to bother you, Miss Clemens, but Mr. Rigby called me."

"Thank you, Mr. Murray," Elinor Clemens stroked the brown ears of her boxer dog, "Rockets, what have you been up to?"

Mr. Murray, the humane officer, took off his cap and ran a gnarled hand over his brush of hair. "Well, Mr. Rigby, the new fellow on the corner... bought Edmon's house, you know... well, he raises some kind of birds and said that Rockets, here, was scaring the living daylight out of them."

"I'm terribly sorry to put you to so much bother. I'll have a fence put up today. Rockets really might get into serious trouble; he's so big and playful."

3-Minute Fiction

Elinor was roused from her reading that afternoon by a ringing of her door bell and the barking of Rockets. She opened the door to find a repetition of the scene enacted earlier that morning. Mr. Murray had Rockets in tow again. But far from looking repentant, Rockets appeared to be fully enjoying the attention.

"He's been at it again. This time Mr. Rigby was really mad." Mr. Murray chuckled and scratched his ear. "Funniest thing he said, 'You tell that old spinster to keep her confounded dog at home where he belongs.'"

"I'm terribly sorry, miss. Here let me pick that up." He handed her the package and put out a hand in apology.

Mr. Murray seemed greatly amused at the intimation. "Imagine him calling you an old spinster. All of twenty-three aren't you?" He laughed again at the joke. "Wouldn't he be surprised if he were to see you?"

Elinor, not easily agitated, was beginning to dislike Mr. Rigby immensely. "Just what kind of precious birds is he keeping that Rockets should get him so upset?"

"Some kind of game birds he called them. Pheasants, quail, partridge, and some queer ones I've never seen before. tinamous, he said they were. Lay bright green, waxy looking eggs. Darndest thing I ever saw." Mr. Murray turned to go. "Guess you'll just have to chain him up or build the fence higher. Bye, good luck."

Mr. Rigby, indeed, thought Elinor. We were all perfectly happy around here until he came to town.

The following afternoon Elinor was walking briskly up the street carrying a heavy package under her arm, when she was bumped by a young man in a great hurry.

Instant concern crossed his tanned face. "I'm terribly sorry, miss. Here let me pick that up. Must be filled with money from the weight and jangle." He handed her the package and put out a hand in apology. "That was inexcusable of me to barge into you. I guess I was pretty riled up and wasn't watching where I was going."

"That's quite all right," Elinor smiled and succeeded in almost blinding the confused young man. "Accidents will happen. No harm done."

Elinor would like to have stayed and talked to this attractive stranger, but she had to get home and put the chain on Rockets before he got out again. She smiled again and walked on.

The young man turned to watch her enter her yard. He saw Maggie come out on the front porch. "Elinor Clemens, what in the world have you got in that huge package? Here let me take it."

"While you were gone that Mr. Rigby brought Rockets back again. He was really burning. Said he was going to have you arrested if you didn't keep that dog home." Maggie laughed as if it were all a huge joke.

"Indeed! I'm going over and have a talk with that man." Elinor handed the chain to Maggie. "Will you put this on Rockets, I'll be right back."

She was walking at a much faster clip than usual when she reached Mr. Rigby's fence. Suddenly she heard someone calling rather furtively. She stopped for a moment behind the hedge and peered over the top. There was the handsome young stranger with a huge bone in his hand. "Rockets, Rockets," he was calling in a loud whisper.

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Did you enjoy the butter you bought today? If you eat toast dry, or margarine spread, you still bought butter today, because every day the government uses over a million dollars of taxes collected from all families to buy surplus butter to hold up the price. Today, Uncle Sam has almost 200 million pounds of butter.

That fact stands behind report that government plans huge nationwide sale where by for every pound of butter you buy at regular prices, you will be able to buy a pound from government stocks for only 10 cents.

There was discussion of selling to foreign governments, taking their currency for it, instead of requiring dollars.

However, it was learned this would upset economy of butter producing nations, by taking their customers.

Government also owns over 100 million pounds of dried milk, plus huge dairy mounting supplies of other farm products.

And neither Brannan or Henry Wallace have anything to do with it.

Instead, Ezra Benson of Utah, who has both publicly and privately abhorred government price supports, directs the program.

Yet, as Agriculture Secretary he directs a program as obnoxious to him as deals with the devil would be to his beliefs as a pillar of the Mormon Church.

Many explanations are made why the government is supporting.

World's Deepest Sale
In samples taken from 34,440-foot Cape Johnson Deep off the Philippines, the world's deepest known ocean hole, a Danish round-the-world expedition found life existing six miles beneath the surface of the sea.

Absinthe
Absinthe is a green alcoholic liquor containing oils of wormwood and anise and other aromatics. Its continued use causes nervous degeneration.

ing butter prices. Increased margarine use is frequently cited.

Yet government also owns a billion pounds of cottonseed oil, which with dried milk, is principal ingredient of margarine.

Thus Benson, or any Agriculture Secretary is constantly tossed on the horns of a dilemma. If butter sells at expense of margarine sales, more dried milk, more cottonseed oil will pile up.

Thus in Washington belief grows that not the Agriculture Department, but the anti trust division of the Justice Department must solve the farm problem.

In the dairy industry, for example, producers receive smaller share of consumers dollar. Retail stores also get small share of this dollar. But between the farm and store, there's a lot of "water" in dairy products.

But distribution and marketing of dairy products has been concentrated into a very few hands, aided by a monopolistic control of dairy labor.

Thus, many are taking the point of view that the nation's farmers are not plagued by over production, but by monopoly control of the distribution of their product.

The belief is growing that unless this control of farm products is broken by enforcement of anti trust laws, the American taxpayer will always be assessed to keep the nation's farming community from collapsing. Monopoly business practices, it has long been held, are the most inefficient practices and eventually require government support, and rigged-prices to exist. Thus in the dairy industry, the public pays two ways to support a monopoly, through higher prices, through taxes to support the farmers.

A & P Celebrates Remodeling of Antioch Market

Thursday, Aug. 27, will mark the kickoff of a gala celebration at the A&P super market here in Antioch to observe the formal unveiling of a new self-service meat department and the completion of a major remodeling job at the super market.

In observance of the meat department's grand reopening the first 1,000 ladies to visit the streamlined "Store of Tomorrow" on Thursday will be presented an orchid corsage and all adult customers will be given sample packages of cigarettes. There will be pencils for the children as souvenirs of the opening.

On Friday, Manager Anton F. Kaiser will give away 1,000 plastic aprons to the early lady visitors and banks for youngsters. Saturday will be Potato Chip day with 1,000 free bags being given early shoppers and helium-inflated balloons for the kiddies.

Speaking of the new self-service meat department, Manager Kaiser said: "We feel our Antioch friends will be truly pleased with our self-service department, which completely eliminates the long delays of the old-type meat section. Now one can shop for their meats as fast as they can dairy products, baked goods or anything else in the store."

All varieties will be cut, wrapped, weighed, labeled and priced before being displayed. Thus, all meats are ready for immediate selection by shoppers and the delay of meat shopping is a thing of the past.

For those who wish custom cuts that might not be found in the open self-service cases, the manager said, a system of communication between the store and the cutting room has been installed and special cuts may be ordered directly from the butchers. He also pointed out that cutters and wrappers would be working all day in the rear of the meat department, thus assuring a constant flow of freshly cut and freshly wrapped meats into the self-service meat cases.

The installation of self-service meats and other improvements made during the remodeling makes the Antioch super market of A&P one of the most modern plants the 83-year-old food firm operates in the middle west.

Other features of the remodeling include enlargement of the store overall, streamlined Jane Parker bakery department, an elaborate candy section, five fast moving checkout stands; also a new refrigerated produce section, health and beauty aids department and an enlarged grocery section.

Another important feature is the large parking space alongside the store for the convenience of those residents who drive to market.

The exterior of the "food mart" will be lighted by new mercury vapor lamps with powerful floodlights on the parking area.

Store hours will be 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily except Friday when the super market will remain open until 9 p. m. for the convenience of those unable to shop during the day.

The same A&P creed will govern operation at the remodeled store, Tony Kaiser said. The policy reads: Always to—

Do what is honest, fair, sincere, and in the best interests of every customer.

Extend friendly satisfying service to everyone.

Give every customer the most good food for her money.

Assure accurate weight every time—16 ozs. to each pound. Give accurate count and full measure. Charge the correct price. Cheerfully refund customer's money if for any reason any purchase is not satisfactory.

Award Tag Day Prizes

At the close of the "Red Heart Tag Day" held on Saturday by the Volunteers of America to aid destitute mothers with children in care of the organization in this state, Mrs. Laura Swanson who had charge of the affair reports that Sonya Pickus was entitled to the first prize having secured $40.54. The second prize was won by Michael Mortensen who had $22.50. The third winner had $21.50. The other workers were made happy with cash also.

Invents New Fish Hook

William E. Semar, Ingleside, has been granted a patent on a new type of fish hook which has tweezer action to hold worms or minnows. The angler need not hold the bait in his or her hands, something that many women dislike, and this feature will be appreciated. The hooks will be produced in various sizes.

Fact and Scripture

Amidst the revelry and turmoil of human existence it is good to see a cartoon on the front of last week's Antioch News depicting a strong hand of FAITH rising above the pall and destruction of the A-bomb.

FAITH is confidence and trust in God. There are many man-made religions and seeing some good in a philosophy is not the faith from heaven.

Jesus is the way, the truth and the life—no man cometh unto the Father, but by me.—John 14:6.

Let not your heart be troubled; we believe in God, believe also in me.—John 14:1.

Jesus answered them, and said: My doctrine is not mine, but His that sent me. If any man will do His will he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself.—John 7:16, 17.

To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles: which is Christ in you, the hope of glory.—Col. 1:27.
